HOWARD HOUSE.
HOWARD STREET.
The subscriber respectfully informs his friends and the public, that he has taken that well known and extensive establishment, formerly occupied by the late Mr. WILLIAM GALLAGHER. He hopes by strict attention and a desire to please, to merit the patronage from the public which was bestowed upon his predecessor.

The House is situated in the most central part of the city and contiguous to the Post Office and other public buildings. It has been fitted up in a neat and genteel style—the rooms airy and retired. The Larder will at all times be provided with every delicacy the season will afford.

Parties wishing it be provided with entertainment for any number of persons, can be accommodated at the shortest notice. A few single gentlemen can be accommodated with board.

JAMES RYAN.

MASSASOIT HOUSE.
WALTHAM, Ms.

The subscriber respectfully informs his friends and the public, that this large and elegant establishment, ½ miles from the city, is now open for the reception of company, and every effort will be made to give entire satisfaction to individuals and parties of pleasure, at immediate notice.

■■■ CAUTION TO THE PUBLIC.—The subscriber having completed a purchase of the exclusive right of the new and useful improvement in the Cooking Stove called the Improved Premium or Conical, takes this method to caution all persons from infringing upon his right. The stove to which he alludes is probably best known by the name of the Conical Stove, and has his name on the front. This stove was introduced into market in its present shape in the Spring of 1835, and about 150,000 were sold. They have generally given great satisfaction, and the subscriber has made such arrangements as will enable him to supply the market the coming season. And as he has been informed that there are persons in the vicinity of Boston, who have already commenced manufacturing them, and others are preparing to make the said stove, he deems it his duty to inform such persons, and the public generally, that prompt measures will be taken to prosecute all such infringements. He also intends having an agency in Boston, where the public can be supplied with said Conical Stove on liberal terms, at wholesale and retail.

laws," &c. The principles which we have pointed out, and of which we require an exact observance in the formation of the laws, are the very foundation of our government. We trust then, that the democratic party will insist upon general and standing laws on the subjects of corporations and exchange of notes.

In maintaining these principles, we must expect much opposition. For the friends of the Ten Million Bank—a scheme invented in the closet of the politician, and not in the counting rooms of the trading community—are trying to bribe the people into a surrender of their right to be protected by standing and general laws, by offers to pay a heavy tax as a bonus for their exclusive privileges. They tell the people that if they will submit to a violation of this right, and compel others to submit, the Bank will relieve them of that corresponding duty which the constitution imposes, or contributing their share toward the expense of government. They offer to buy a right, by the assumption of a corresponding duty. For the duty of paying taxes to government is founded by the constitution upon the reciprocal right of being protected by the standing laws.—

"Each individual of the society has a right to be protected in his life, liberty, and property, by the standing laws. He is obliged, consequently, to contribute his share of the expense of this protection." Give us a special law; cry the aristocracy, securing to us advantages and particular privileges distinct from those which are secured by the standing laws to the community—make laws for our special profit and private interest—vest us with legal powers, which will enable us to control and regulate trade without pecuniary or personal responsibility to the people, and for our sole use, and we will relieve you of the expense of government. Associate with us in trade, and we will render taxation unnecessary. To this we reply, that our right to be protected by standing laws is inalienable, and so is our duty to contribute our share of the expense of government. Neither can be sold or given away, de jure. A majority which consents to do so, usurps power in violation of the rights of the minority, and of posterity. If the government risks its credit in any trade, whether manufacturing, importing, banking, or whaling, and loses money through bad management, or misfortune, it is the citizen constitutionally bound to pay his share of the loss? The pledge of the State credit, for the purpose proposed by the monster, would be a base fraud on the creditors who might buy the bonds, or on the people who might be called upon to pay them. For the government has a mortgage on the private property of the people only to pay the expence of administering the laws, and not to pay losses on speculations in trade. The consideration for which he covenants to pledge his property for taxation is, protection by standing laws.—The State covenants that all shall be governed by certain laws, that every man may, at all times, find his security in them. The duty of submitting to taxation is, by the constitution, based on this principle, and not on the right of taxing some, or pledging their property, to pay the losses, or build up the credit, of a few speculators, who are, confessedly, heavily in debt, and want aid to keep up an extended business, or to exclude others from competing for its extravagant profits.

Henry Marshall, being, as the black letter law gravely hath it, "voluntarius demus," displayed his demonism, by way-laying ladies on Warren Bridge, on Sunday afternoon, for which he was arrested by Constable Hunt. A witness, who was disposed to smooth matters over for Marshall, said "he only indulged in ardent spirits occasionally for days and weeks together." He was under contract to go to Cincinnati, and therefore only fined $3 and costs, and if not paid in five days, then two months in the House of Correction.

Michael Donelly, a boy of 16, entered Mr Colby's dry goods store, on Saturday night, and stole a pair of hose, but being intoxicated, could not clear the cape. Two months House of Correction.

Fires.—A fire occurred at Cambridgeport, on Sunday evening, about half-past 8, which destroyed Dougherty's twine factory, situated on the road to the Magazine—the work of an incendiary, who, it is reported, has been arrested.

About the same time a fire broke out in the extensive boarding-house belonging to the Maleable Iron Company, at East Boston, which was also destroyed. The building was valued at $10,000, and was insured. Most of the furniture was saved. During the fire, Mr Smith, of No 11, fell from the second story of the building and was severely wounded. Engines from Charlestown, Medford and Roxbury were present.

On Saturday, towards midnight, a house occupied by Capt Paxton, at Brighton, was consumed by fire.

Tremont Theatre.—Mr Leman, a very worthy and industrious actor takes a benefit to-night. He is a young man of considerable promise, and is always punctual and perfect in his part. His bill, it will be seen, is attractive—Mr Lewis, as Othello, for the first time in this country. We hope Mr L. will be rewarded for his exertions during the season, with a full house.

The Revised Statutes are very strict in relation to the performance of military duty—they allow but a precious few exemptions, except "idiots, lunatics, drunkards, vagabonds, paupers, and persons convicted of any infamous crime." All things considered, we are inclined to think we had better serve our country to-day, between the hours of twelve and one.

The critics in Mobile are denouncing an actress—whose name they do not mention—in wholesale style—ex gr.—

"She is a bare-faced imposition on the public, an outrage on our feelings.—Her actions and dress on the stage have made many a female blush and retire in confusion, shame and disgust from the Theatre."

Throw her over!

The Democrats in Connecticut are urging the appointment of a Committee, by their next Legislature, to make a thorough examination of the doings of all the banks and even the government. We are in favor of reform, and opposed to revolution. To put an end to revolution, by maintaining the supremacy of the laws, and to provide for peaceful remedies, without fraud or violence, is the great end of that modern invention, constitutional government. Those who advocate revolution and nullification, because they cannot enjoy monopoly and exclusive privileges without restraint, are not respected by a virtuous and intelligent community. This fact speaks volumes in favor of the people, whose generous qualities are more likely to be imposed upon, than their love of the inviolability of contracts to honor. Their deceivers understand both traits, and take advantage of them.

EQUAL LAWS TO SECURE TO ALL EQUAL RIGHTS.

An Anxious Hearer.—A parishioner complained to his parson that his pew was too far from the pulpit, and due he must purchase one nearer. "Why," said the parson, "can't you hear distinctly?" "O yes, I can hear well enough," "Can't you see plainly?" "Yes, I can see perfectly well." "Then what can be the trouble?" "Why there are so many in front of me, who catch what you say first, that by the time your words reach my ears they are as flat as dishwater."

The Steamboat Independence is again on the route between this city and Portland. During the winter she has had about thirty feet added to her length, a ladies cabin built on deck, and is now fitted up, in every respect, in a first rate manner. Her speed has been very much increased. It is unnecessary to say any thing in praise of her courteous and gentlemanly commander, Capt Howes, who already stands high in the estimation of the travelling public.

An old man named Leonard Owen, a native of this State, fell down dead, in New York, on Friday, while pursuing his usual avocations.

POLICE COURT.

Mary Ann Jones is an amiable creature, whom the watch have perpetually persecuted during the last ten years. They always try to make it out that she is a night-walker—not a "soothingist," but a paramour for hire. She, however, had the privilege of expressing her own opinion and views of the principle of the thing, as follows:—

Mary—I don't deny but that I was in the street, when the watchman spoke to me, and I answered him rather sharply, for showing partiality, as there were other girls out that he did not speak to. I thought then, and I don't see now why I have not as much right to walk in the streets as any other person. I'll own that I used to go out more than was exactly proper, and more perhaps than was good for me; but I'm another woman now. I think you ought to have some kind of mercy to me. I can see why they should look after me, but it is the principle of the thing I look at altogether. There's Becky Newcomb and Sally Barnes have been let run twice as long as I have. It's all because I have no relations here to stand up for me; but I think I ought to have some justice, if I'm a little colored. It is my intention, if I get clear this hitch, to go home to Salem, where my friends are."

His honor complied with her petition for some justice, by sentencing her, for the ninth time, to the house of correction, which seemed to sit very ill on her stomach, for she answered:—"I hope then some of you will suffer more than that; I never heard of such people to go for to keep a person all the time at work for the State, and give her no pay for it."

George H. Monday was brought up last week, for being drunk and disorderly in the streets. He then stated that he was recently from Hartford, where he had failed in business, and come to this city to repair his fortunes, but became home-sick, and tried to "keep his spirits up by pouring spirits down." Reid spoke a good word for him, and taking courage he said to His Honor—"I'll pledge you my word and honor, if I will extend to me the clemency of a few hours to close some business here, I'll then go back to Hartford."

It is the practice of the court to allow culprits to go into voluntary banishment, if so disposed, and three hours grace was accordingly granted to Monday. He therefore departed, collected his debts, got drunk on the amount, and was the next day discovered preaching in the street, as crazy as any other rantier. As he was not an ordained preacher, he was sent to the House of Correction, as pre-ordained by His Honor on Saturday.

Henry Marshall, being, as the black letter law gravely hath it, "voluntarius demus," displayed his demonism, by way-laying ladies on Warren Bridge, on Sunday afternoon, for which he was arrested by Constable Hunt. A witness, who was disposed to smooth matters over for Marshall, said "he only indulged in ardent spirits occasionally for days and weeks together." THE GYMNASIUM.

M R. SHERIDAN is happy to inform the citizens of Boston, that the GYMNASIUM, under his direction, is now completed. It is situated twelve doors from the head of Hanover street, and combines every advantage of location. It is enclosed by high walls, and every arrangement has been made to combine amusement with healthy exercise. Mr Sheridan will bestow personal attention upon his patrons, directing and superintending the sports.

It is hoped that by the time of the opening, not made without great expense, to establish a school for innocent and profitable exercise, will not be disregarded.

Application to be made to Mr SHERIDAN at the Gymnasium. 3tis m2
